LINES
ON THE "STORMY PETREL," CALLED BY SAILORS "MOTHER CAREY'S CHICKENS."

(Written during the late passage of the Author from Ireland to Quebec, and communicated for the TRAVELLER.)

Born of untiring wing,
Whence dost thou come?
Bird of deep mystery
Where is thy home?

On the broad ocean wave
How canst thou rest?
Where dost thou moor at night?
Where build thy nest?

Land is too far from thee
On ev'ry side—
Thousands of miles away
Over the tide.

Yet dost thou carelessly
Sport o'er the wave,
Fearless of finding
A watery grave.

When the storm rages
And tempests beat high,
Still on the crest
Of the billows you fly.

Sportively, joyously
Dart through the foam,
Still seem delighted
O'er ocean to roam.

Bird of three elements—
Air, water, earth,
Where dost thou rear thy young?
Where hail their birth?

Is it on some lonely
Rock in the sea,
Where human hand nor foot
Ever may be?

Dost thou from such lone spot
Launch o'er the flood,
Bringing along with thee
Thy youthful brood?

Over the deep sea
Like thee to fly,
Like thee to leave their young,
Flutter —— and die?

Bird of existence brief,
Man is like thee,
Launching he knows not where,
O'er the wide sea

Toss'd on the billows
Of life's stormy wave
Restless as thou
Till he sinks in the grave.

But not like thee, poor bird,
Never to rise—
Spon on the wings
Of the spirit he dies—

Soars through eternal space
Ransomed and blest,
Mounts to heaven's utmost height:
There is his rest.

FRANCES E. BROWNE.
MONTREAL, July 3rd, 1845.

The Surplice Question.

BY A BENEDICT.

A VERY pretty public air
Is making, down at Exeter,
About the surplice fashion;
And many bitter words and rude
Have been bestowed upon the feud
And much unchristian passion.

For me, I neither know nor care
Whether a Parson ought to wear
A black dress or a white dress;
Fill'd with a trouble of my own,—
A wife who preaches in her gown,
And lectures in her night-dress!

The following verses will show that the natives of the Emerald Isle are still famous for their witticism:

PADDY, when told a store would SAVE
Just half his usual fuel,
Replied, "Arrah then two I'll have,
And save it all—my jewel."

EPIGRAM.

"MY wife's so very bad," quoth Will,
"I fear she ne'er can hold it,
She keeps her bed." "Mine's worse" cried Phil.
"The jade has just now sold it."

The Morality of "Cuteness."

From the Knickerbocker.

There is a valuable lesson, as well as much genuine humour, in the following communication, which we derive from a welcome contributor in the "land of steady habits:"

Few days since, a tee-looking genius carrying a cheap hair trunk, made his appearance on board a sloop, which plies between New-York and a seaport town on the Connecticut coast, and inquired for the captain. He hailed from Cuss country, New-Hampshire, and presented in his appearance a perfect specimen of a fresh-caught Yankee. He wore a mixed coat of homemade fabric, with short square skirts such as are usually called "bob-tail," tred buttons, and sleeves about six inches too short at the wrists. His pantaloons were striped, and his legs wonderfully long way through them, leaving the interval between the legs of the trowsers and his heavy lead boots strayed in a substantial pair of pepper-and-salt yarn stockings.

On a head, adorned with a luxuriant growth of coarse sandy hair, allowed to a nicety, was perched a hat, much worn, but in an excellent state of preservation, with a narrow brim, and huge bell-crown, serving the purpose of a travelling valise, in addition to the other uses of that article of wearing apparel. An immense collar, rigged with starch and sweat, to the ears, supported by a cotton cravat of variegated yellow and black, completed the adornment of his outer man. He seemed about twenty-five years of age; was a lean, cadaverous-looking individual, standing some six-feet when erect, but having a stoop of the shoulders which reduced him to about five feet nine. A small pinched up mouth, peaked nose, high cheek bones, sunken cheeks, prominent chin, and a pair of bright twinkling eyes, of an indescribable colour, gave an air of extreme "cuteness" to his physiognomy.

This was obviously his first visit to the salt water; but he stood upon the side-ways on his whaling Yankee-shoes, with his arms thrust into his pockets up to his elbows, one leg trowed forward, his eyes cast upward, scanning the rigging with the fix of a professional, he seemed so much at home as though he was a veritable "ocean child." In reply to a question as to his business, he stretched out:

"Captin, what'll your charge be to take a feller to York city?"

He was informed that the fare was one dollar and fifty cents.

"I s'pect you mean you charge a feller that when you find him; what'll you take a feller for when he finds himself?"

The price of passage, without board, he was informed was seventy-five cents.

"Then I shall have to foot it to York; you see I'm scant on't for funds, and I must have a cent's worth left to feed me s'pe I git there! can't get along without victuals."

"Can't help it," replied the captain; "that's our lowest; we don't but one price."

"Now, just take a feller for half-a-dollar, captin; come, now; if you will, I'll help do up the chores while I'm aboard."

"No, sir, I can't take you for that price."

The greenhorn squirted a long stream of tobacco-juice upon the deck, resumed his hank of Yankee-doodle, shouldered his hair-trunk, and walked off. In about an hour he returned, and with a grin addressed the captain:

"Now, look o' here, captain, I'm in distress; I post-illely hain't got but tew dollars in the world; I must get to New-York, or I shall starve; I can't get nothin' to do here.—Now, do captin; I've always heer'd tell that you sailors was generous chaps."

This appeal to the captain's professional pride had its effect; and he agreed to take the persevering mendicant for fifty cents, provided he would supply himself with provisions, and render such assistance as he could in managing the vessel.

The passage was unusually long, being detained by contrary winds; a week beyond the ordinary time of starting. On the second day, the Yankee ran out of provisions; and the captain, as an act of charity, furnished him from the vessel's stores. About thirty-six hours before their arrival, in the exhilaration of his exultation at having outwitted the captain, he di-closed to a fellow-passenger that he had "lots o' cash," and he made quite a display of loose change. This soon came to the ears of the captain, who was so indignant at the imposition which had been practised upon him, that he was about to set the tricky customer ashore, to "foot it to York" the best way he could; but on reflection, he concluded that it would be a worse punishment to keep him on board, stop his rations, and put him hard to work. From this time until their arrival, the Yankee's situation was no sinecure. Furnished with a cloth and bucket of sand, he was set to scouring the anchor! Being inured to labour, that did not trouble him much; but to work on an empty stomach thirty-six hours and endure the curses of the enraged captain, and the laughing jeers of the passengers and crew, and all for the small matter of twenty-five cents, he thought was "paying rather dear for his whistle?"

Great was his joy, therefore, when they hauled into the slip at New-York; and before the sloop's cable had touched the dock, he jumped ashore. Leaving the hair-trunk to be removed after he had satisfied his hunger, he hastened to the nearest place where food could be procured. This happened to be a huckster's stand at the end of the ship; where, among other eatables, were displayed some fine-looking boiled lobsters. Our verdant pilgrim had often heard lobsters spoken of as excellent food, though he had never tasted any: this seemed a good opportunity to satisfy his hunger, at the same time to enjoy a rare luxury; so after bargaining a while, and beating the old woman down in her price some three or four cents, he bought three lobsters, and as many Boston "crackers," with which he returned to the sloop.

Meanwhile one of the passengers, a wag of the first order, having been up into the city, returned on board, and noticed the Yankee, at the head of the bowsprit, seated on his hair trunk, and "going into" his bargain with tooth and nail. It was a goody spectacle! He wrenched the jaws and claws of the lobster apart with unnecessary strength, drawing out with voracity sharp splinters of the meat, and biting them off close down to the sockets which held them. Such a smashing and crushing never was heard before! Carelessly sauntering within hearing, the waggish passenger gave the captain a wink.

"This is a horrible business, captain?"

"What is a horrible business?" asked the skipper.

"Hain't you heard the news? All the papers are full of it. 'Some Jersey fishing-smacks have been taking lobsters on the coppera-bottks off Barnegat and have sold them all over the city. Every person who has eaten any of them is poisoned. Fifty-three have died since this morning, there is a tremendous excitement about it. As I came down I leave an officer arrest the old woman who keeps the stand! A bee heard of the slip, for selling some of the same lobsters."

The Yankee, who had already devoured one and part of another, paused at the narration, as if suddenly paralyzed, and let drop the fragment which he held, with the untouched prize into the water, his mouth filled with crackers and lobster, his enormous palms extended over his abdomen, his face pallid with terror, he exclaimed—

"O gully! what shall I do! What shall I do! I'm starving to death! I live in York! Cuss the lobsters! I wish I'd staid to hum.—Oh! my bowels! my bowels!"

"If that green-horn hasn't been eating some of 'em, you for a doctor," exclaimed the captain. Some one started ashore for a physician. In the meantime, the Yankee continued to groan and lament, attracting a large crowd of spectators by his cries; "Oh, Suke! if I had only taken your advice, and kept clear of this tarnal York city! I'm dying—I know I am! my mouth tastes just like a rusty cent! The doctor! I charge an all-fired price to cure my! s'pose. There he setting green! that's the copperas! I shall die before the doctor gets here! Murder! murder! murder!"

Some one personating a physician made his appearance, felt the patient's pulse, examined his tongue, and pronounced it a clear case of poisoning from eating copperas lobsters. He prescribed a powerful emetic, which was immediately administered in the form of a quart of luke-warm salt water. The effect was powerful beyond expectation. It produced a prodigious paroxysm, and kept him in a continual shudder for more than an hour, during which his cose seemed to be very doubtful. He kept grafting his stomach with his two hands, scouring his viscera, and bowing down as the contending forces racked his whole inner man. In the pauses of his pangs he utter exclamations, such as "Oh! Suke! lobsters! cuss York city! Oh! my bowels! If I ever get hum again, you'll never leave hum, Suke, if it begins! I shall die! Parson Dolittle!—Parson Dolittle! if I hadn't neglected your preachin'!" to the great edification and amusement of the bystanders.

At length the doctor pronounced him free from danger and convalescent. The next thing was the payment of the fee, which he was informed was five dollars. He groaned in spirit, and his "bowels" yearned worse than ever at the thought of parting with such a sum of money. There was no help for it, however, so he forked over "the V., and shouldering his hair trunk, went on his way, groaning—"Cuss York city! cuss that doctor!—and cuss them d—d plasn lobsters!"

That evening the captain, the wag, and the pseudo-physician, instead of a Florence, or lobsters, salad and "trimmings," for which the Yankee's five dollars stood exchanger.

MR. JOHN BALFOUR, from this Office, is now on a collecting tour in the Western division of this Province, from Hamilton upwards, and we have to request the favour of a prompt settlement of all accounts due to this establishment.

We trust that the intended enlargement, and other improvements in our paper, of which we lately gave notice, will give increased satisfaction to our old Subscribers, and obtain us a considerable addition to our Subscription List—for which Mr. Balfour will be happy to receive orders.

Arrival of the Britannia.

WE return our special thanks to Mr. Brown, of the firm of Lynes & Brown, for having kindly furnished us, when ready for press, with the New York Express, of Saturday, 20th instant, announcing the arrival of the Britannia at Boston. Mr. Brown having come direct from New-York, we anticipate the regular mail by his attention, and we therefore postpone other matters for the news.

The Britannia arrived at Boston on Friday, at ten o'clock, a. m., with eleven days later news.

The general news is of little interest, while the commercial intelligence is of the most cheering kind. Cotton has improved, and the English crops are stated to be much better than was expected, caused increased confidence among manufacturers and the country trade generally.

In American provisions there was a better feeling, with higher prices.

LIVERPOOL COTN MARKET, September 2.

The favorable change in the weather has discouraged speculation, and sales last ten days have been extremely limited at declining rates. The harvest is now proceeding rapidly, and the accounts as to the yield and quality of the wheat crop, are more favorable than could have been expected. No alteration in duties on Foreign grain, and no transactions in bond, except a small parcel American flour, at 24s. The few sales of wheat to-day were at a reduction of 4d to 6d per 70 lbs, and 1s a 2s per barrel on Canadian flour. Wheat, per 70 lbs—foreign, free 6s 8d a 8s 9d—F ost—Canadian, per barrel, 29s a 30s; United States sweet, 31s a 32s; in bond 24s a 25s; do. and Canadian, sour, 26s a 29s; yellow and red in bond, 20s a 21s; new 29s a 30s. Indian Corn, 480 lbs, white, 28s a 29s; yellow and red in bond 19s a 20s. Considering the reduced stocks of grain held in this country—the late harvest and the probably deficient yield in consequence—in connexion with a very extended consumption of all articles of food, and a partial failure in the potato crop—it seems likely that the present decline in prices will soon be arrested, and that a firmer market will speedily succeed the present depression.

LIVERPOOL AMERICAN PROVISION MARKET, September 3.

In beef an improved demand; sales of the month over 1200 tierces, and stock considerably reduced; holders now ask 2s advance, which will be probably maintained. In pork no improvement. Sale of cheese active, and market bare; all the late imports taken off at extreme quotations. Grease butter quick sale, at a further advance. Lard, in bbls, is scarce and wanted; 1000 kegs very fine leaf lard sold, by auction, at 4s 6d per cwt. Prices—Beef, in bond, United States mess, per tierce, 66s a 74s; ditto, per barrel, 38s a 42s; ditto, inferior and old, per tierce, 50s a 58s; butter, per cwt, grease, 47s a 48s; cheese, United States fine, 50s a 56s; middling, 47s a 49s; old, 38s a 43s; lard, United States, in barrels, 37s a 43s; kegs, 43s a 47s; pork, per barrel, United States prime, 48s a 52s; mess, 56s; prices, 56s a 60s; hams, per cwt, 54s a 58s, in canvas, 60s a 63s. Imports from the 1st to the 31st August—Beef, 292 tierces 59 barrels; hams, 31 casks; tallow, 348 bogsheads 277 barrels; lard, 18 barrels 1925 kegs; butter, 458 casks; cheese, 2208 boxes; ashes, 101 pot; hides, 1256. From Canada—Beef, 107 barrels; ashes, 810 pot 129 pearl; flour, 7118 barrels.

THE COTTON MARKET—that great barometer of public feeling—has shown symptoms of improvement. The sale up to the end of the week exceeded 48,000 bags—a daily average of more than 8000. In the four days since, nearly 40,000 have been sold and prices are very evidently getting up.

The state of trade is in most respects satisfactory. The demand for all the leading staples, whether sugar, coffee, wool, or cotton, is so steady as to indicate a healthy consumption, and the supplies are sufficient to check any exhorbitant advance.

The weather, which has for some time been stormy, and which it was feared would greatly injure the growing crops and retard the harvest, has suddenly changed for the better, and there is a fair prospect of abundance. The recent favourable change of the weather appears to have extended over the whole of the United Kingdom, and there is every prospect of a glorious harvest. In the course of the coming week, probably the whole of the corn will be housed, and the crops will not only be abundant, but they will be secured in good order, it was expected.

The European Times says—"The fine weather has had a material influence in strengthening this feeling, and in dispelling the melancholy forebodings about the harvest that had taken possession of the public mind. The sales up to the end of the week exceeded 48,000 bags—a daily average of more than 8000. In the four days since nearly 40,000 have been sold, and prices are very evidently getting up. It is true, that speculators have bought freely, but this is only a natural course, to be expected now that the harvest is considered secure. The crops that have been cut, although not so good as could be wished, are better than was expected. The corn crops bear partially exhibit the absence of that feverish excitement that has been manifest during the last month or six weeks. In despite, however, a considerable importation of foreign grain will be necessary to mix with the soft and inferior qualities of the present year."

"Still," says the News Letter of Liverpool, "there will be room for an importation of grain and flour from the United States and Canada, to mix with that of home growth."

Doubtful, we think. The good weather had gone beyond England and to France, Belgium and Holland; and there were general congratulations at the change from what was feared would be a scanty supply for that which gave promise of abundance.

Circular of Baring Brothers & Co.

LONDON, September 3.—Weather since our last, 22nd ultimo, very fine, and considerable progress made in harvesting. Quality of new wheat received is rather indifferent, but as that was probably housed prematurely, we do not consider it affords any criterion of the crop generally, which, with a continuance of favourable weather, we think will prove a good average one. Trade continues healthy in all its branches; increased demand presents for produce and the leading staple goods for export, while the home trade supply increases freely, and prices of many articles have improved.

The Queen had not returned from Germany. The papers contain further accounts of her progress.

SCOTLAND.—Scotland, which usually absorbs but little of the politician's attention, has been disturbed, during the last few days, by one or two emeute, not very serious, but sufficient, in the absence of more stirring events, to fix the public gaze upon that part of the island. The scene of the principal outrage was at Dunfermline, where the house of an employer was attacked, and his family maltreated, by his operatives, arising out of a dispute about wages. Troops were dispatched from Edinburgh, and the newspapers gave importance to the circumstance, by displaying in imposing capitals, the "Riots in Scotland."

Repeal Association.

The usual meeting took place on Monday last, but the attendance, both in quality and quantity, was wretched in the extreme, and the proceedings were of far more than average dullness. Mr. Counsellor Reilly presided. A letter was read from Smith O'Brien, enclosing his subscription for the month. He remarks upon the importance of attention to the registry, and observes—"Patriots of Ireland, the destiny, not of Ireland alone, but of the empire, is subject to your control", and asks, "What man, or what man more noble, what more holy, than that which aspires to accomplish the liberation of the country which gave us birth?" An address to the Protestants and Presbyterians of Ulster, entreating them to forget and bury national differences and make a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether for Old Ireland, and signed by John O'Connell, was adopted. The rent for the week was announced to be £207 13s. 7d.

Terrific Whirlwind on the Continent.

There has been a terrific whirlwind on the continent. Its effects in Holland were almost as severely felt as in France. At Rouen, however, it seems to have expended its greatest violence. In that city, three extensive manufactories were destroyed by the whirlwind, while all hands were at work; not less than 60 persons of all ages perished in the ruins, and 126 were thereby wounded.

M. Arago has communicated to the Paris Academy of Science the observation of some of its correspondents, upon the extraordinary meteor which caused such dire effect at Rouen. The disastrous vapour commenced in the valley of Melunsey and, the valley of Monville, about half past twelve o'clock in the day, by the rapid shock of winds and clouds striking in opposite directions, preceded by gusts of an extraordinary hot wind equally remarkable at Paris, and so burning that the mistress of an inn, although standing before a kitchen fire, felt it, as well as many other persons, on all of whom it produced a most oppressive effect. Similar electrical phenomena soon followed. It was remarked that the whirlwind presented the shape of an inverted cone, of which the point looked red. It did not proceed in a right line, but zig-zag, and particularly in the direction where there were masses of iron or steel, such as factories, leaving untouched the intermediate spaces. What is more extraordinary, it only struck parts of the same house, those parts having quantities of iron work, leaving untouched the parts which had little or none. Trees of a century were in some places twisted, in others torn up, and in other places broken. But the most remarkable feature of the whole was this, that a quantity of substances, some of great weight, such as planks of wood, five feet in length, were packed up into the air and carried to a distance of nine leagues, after a journey of seven hours. When the tempest was at its height, the barometer fell 27 millimetres, a fact proved by Professor Preisser. This philosopher does not doubt that the phenomenon was essentially electric. During the passage of the whirlwind, from which flashes of lightning played, some persons smelled a sulphurous odour, and heard a rolling noise; workmen felt themselves moving to and fro, while flames flashed before their eyes. Bits of burned cotton and other materials were found, although there had been no conflagration. Several cooking spits were magnetized. Of the killed, some showed no mark of external injury; many showed rapid signs of decomposition; and altogether there can be no doubt that the cause was of an electric nature.

AUSTRIA.—From Austria, we have intelligence that immense inundations have happened in Hungary, and have done immense damage.

GERMANY.—With reference to the late religious disturbances in Germany, the German Universal Gazette announces, that on the 16th instant a proclamation was posted at Leipsic, informing the people that the King had appointed commissioners to enquire into the deplorable events of the 12th, who would soon arrive in that city. On the same day, the municipal council published a document forbidding, under the severest penalties, all popular meetings, without a special permission of the authorities.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The exertions made by the State of Pennsylvania to pay the interest of her debt have been very much lauded, as likely to re-establish American credit, in Europe, which it cannot be denied has somewhat suffered from the effects of repudiation. There is, however, a complaint of the manner in which some of the interest money is paid.

INDIA AND CHINA.—These had been two weeks from Bombay and Madras, and the mail to Calcutta mails. At Lahore, Joyshir Singh, having attempted to seize Gholab Singh, had been defeated after a sanguinary battle, in which he lost 3000 men. The cholera continued to rage, particularly in Scinde. The mortality at Sakkur was so great that the bazaars were deserted.—Mohammed Akbar Khan had expressed his intention of performing a pilgrimage to the shrine of the Prophet of Mecca. Keying, who had been recalled last year, has now received a seat in the Chinese cabinet, as assistant minister, an honor which his predecessor Keshen held.

FROM CHINA.—The Rainbow from Canton, arrived at New York on Thursday last. She made an extraordinarily short voyage out to China and back. She left New York on the 1st of February, and brings account of her own arrival at China. This is her first voyage. She has proved herself one of the best sailing vessels out of New York.

The New York Commercial Advertiser, of Thursday, announces the arrival, but having then received no papers, the news given is confined to the following:

The Rainbow left Canton on the 5th of June. She therefore brings one month's later advices from China, those by the overland mail being to the 6th of May. We have heard a report that there had been a large fire at Canton—1400 dead bodies were dug out from the ruins. Capt. Land reports that the country at Canton had been inundated by the previous dates and the sailing of the Rainbow. The new crop of teas were pretty much shipped.

From the New York Express, of Saturday, 20th, we have further particulars:

Information of a worse calamity than the loss of fourteen hundred or two thousand lives by fire has reached us from China. We hear of a great earthquake in the province of Honan. Accounts had been received at Canton of a great earthquake, which had demolished about Ten Thousand Houses and Killed upwards of Four Thousand of the Inhabitants! Honan is situated about the centre of China. We have information of this fact without any explanation or detail whatever. The rumor by fire proves to be worse than was apprehended at first. The lives lost, it was thought, would number two thousand, and perhaps even more.

The Deputation from the Church of Scotland.

The Members of the Deputation from the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland have been engaged in the prosecution of the duties of their mission, in Toronto and the surrounding country, for the last few days.

The Rev. Dr. McLeod has been visiting his Highland countrymen, as far as Thorah, on Lake Simcoe, preaching in various places. There has been as yet no time to hear particulars of his journey. D. McLeod has not preached in Toronto.

The Rev. Dr. Simpson, having returned from his visit to Toronto Township and Esquesing, officiated in St. Andrew's Church here on Sunday. He preached in the forenoon and afternoon, to large congregations, eloquent and impressive sermons, of course. The attention with which the Rev. Dr. was listened to by the auditories, was the best proof of the estimation in which he is held. Besides those regular services, Dr. Simpson addressed the teachers, scholars and parents of children, in the Sabbath School; and all present must have been struck with the ease and facility with which he suited his language to the capacity of those whom he was addressing. These addresses were not only highly appropriate to the occasion, but withal so kindly and tenderly delivered that all who heard them cannot fail to bear them in lasting remembrance. The whole demeanor of Dr. Simpson is particularly pleasing; and the profound piety which he exhibits, quite in keeping with the accounts received of him before his arrival here. He is earnestly engaged with his colleagues in the prosecution of their mission of peace, and in preaching the gospel in every place they visit.

The Rev. Norman Macleod, having returned from his visit to Scarboro' and Markham, preached in St. Andrew's Church here, on Sunday evening. The Church was crowded on the occasion. Mr. Macleod's manner of discoursing is peculiar, but so very forcible as to become irresistible. He is probably, the most powerful preacher that has ever visited us; at any rate, we know of none with whom to compare him. He is no ordinary man. He is at once an honor to his Church and his country.

Yesterday afternoon, an address was presented to the deputation, from the session and congregation of St. Andrew's Church. The address was read by the Hon. Mr. Justice McLean, and replied to by the Rev. Dr. Simpson, in the most affectionate manner. These documents we shall take occasion to publish hereafter.

At the early time of our going to press, we are precluded from noticing the proceedings of the meeting in St. Andrew's Church last evening.—That we must also reserve for another occasion.

DEPUTATION FROM THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.—The members of the Deputation leave this morning, for Hamilton.—The following has been furnished us, to show the places they intend visiting, and the time they purpose being at each place. We give the list, for the guidance of those interested:

HAMILTON.—Tuesday evening, September 23rd, a public meeting; and, on Sabbath, 28th inst., Divine Service.

NIAGARA.—Wednesday, 24th instant, a public meeting.

GALT.—Saturday forenoon, 27th instant, a public meeting; and, on Sabbath, the 28th, Divine Service.

GUELPH.—Friday afternoon, 26th instant, a public meeting.

Indian Department.

We understand considerable change has taken place in the Indian Department, and believe the following is a correct statement of the arrangements for this part of the province.

Thomas G. Anderson, Esquire, formerly Superintendent at Manitoulin Island, whose arrival we announced in a former number, has been appointed one of the Visiting Superintendents, and has succeeded Colonel Jarvis in the charge of the Indian Office in this city. He has under his superintendance all the tribes in the Home and Simcoe Districts, also those located on Rice and the adjoining lakes, the Mohawk Indians of Bay Quinté, the Indians of Bedford, in the Frontenac District, and those resident at Owen's Sound and Saguenay (above Goderich) on Lake Huron.

George Ironsides, Esquire, Superintendent Indian Affairs, formerly stationed at Amherstburg, succeeds Mr. Anderson at the Manitoulin Island; his former charge being included in the visiting superintendence of Colonel Clench.

We learn also that the business of disposing of those Indian lands which are for sale has been removed to the Indian Department; the property of the tribes whose affairs they conduct being placed under the management of the Visiting Superintendents severally.

The storm of Saturday last appears to have been general throughout the country. The lightning was most vivid and the thunder terrific. The rain fell in torrents. The good effects of the improved means for draining our streets were visible, in the speedy disappearance of the water after the storm had subsided. The streets and sidewalks became quite dry for passengers to pass in less than half an hour. A few years ago, after a fall of rain, the streets would remain impassable for days, and sometimes weeks. The common sewers that have since been formed, and the much detested ploughing and planking of the streets and paving of the sidewalks, have been the cause of producing a greater amount of comfort and health in the city, than could have been attained by any other means.

The heavy rain on Saturday, as it flooded its way along the planking on Church-street, into the common sewer, to which it is the rapid wearing of the planks. The amount of fibre and dust which had yielded to the traffic on the road, in the short time which elapsed since the previous fall of rain, was exposed to view, and appeared on the surface in ridges, after the current of water had subsided, giving the road such an appearance as might be conceived to be overflowed by a river, and subsequent subsiding of the waters. The apparent waste of the plank, as thus shewn, was far greater than might be expected, and has been regarded by some parties, among other reasons, as an evidence of the want of durability of plank roads in great thoroughfares, like our public ones; but experience proves that they are entirely disproportioned to the time they will be likely to last. The macadamized roads in the city, by being regularly cleaned and kept in proper repair, will be found on the whole, the most durable and economical in the end. The authorities are at present, we understand, considering the question of the cost of stone, which will render it as good as new, at a trifling expense. In a few years, the plank roads will have to be entirely renewed, with new plank, at probably as great cost as their first formation.

We are requested to say that the cucumbers, recommended at the last Toronto Horticultural Show, were raised by Mr. Henry Turner, and not by Mr. Henry Burns, as before stated.

 We are obliged to postpone till Friday, the list of Imports.

Correspondents must be patient.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, GALT.—EJECTMENT.—The Assizes for this District commence on Tuesday next, at Hamilton. Notice of trial has been given in an action of ejectment, brought by the Trustees of St. Andrew's Church, in this place, against the Rev. John Bayne, and others, to recover possession of the manse and and glebe lands formerly attached to St. Andrew's Church.—Dumfries Courier.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, GALT.—The new church erected in this place by the congregation of the Rev. John Bayne, will be opened on Tuesday next, by the Rev. Dr. Burns, of Toronto.—Galt Courier, September 20.

PRICES OF WHEAT.—If beals all!—The Assizes at London, and the wheat market at Port Stanley, have acquitted the honest fall of the men in the District. The idea of "a dollar a bushel for wheat has roused the farmers to such a pitch, that the whole country is alive with them. The toll-gate keepers will be knocked up if the phrensy does not soon cool side. The rush to Port Stanley and to the mills is beyond precedent. Some of the farmers must have travelled all night to get there. The price of wheat has been as high this week as 8s 6d york, or 5s 3½d currency.—St. Thomas Standard, 18th September.

St. George's Church.

The sale of pews in the above Church took place at twelve o'clock at noon, when the most sanguine expectations of its warmest friends were more than realized, although many respectable parties were absent from town. The following prices were obtained. The pews were offered at the following upset prices, £50, £45, £37 10s, £35, and £30, subject to a ground rent of 10 per cent. on the upset price of each pew, until otherwise altered by the vestry:

We have received from Honolulu, a file of the "Friend," from February 1, to April 15, inclusive.—One of the most important events that attracted our notice was that which announced the death of T. Haalilio, who was recently an envoy from the king of Oahu, to this country. He died on board the ship Montreal, before it arrived at Honolulu. His death was universally lamented. "His station and character (says the Friend) entitled him to marked distinction. A nation had been anxiously waiting in anxious suspense, to receive the news of the royal sanction. His majesty, the chiefs, common people, and foreign community, were anxiously awaiting the arrival of the vessel that should bring him to the shores of his native land. Unexpected delays only tended to increase the anxiety, and render the suspense more burdensome. The intelligence then was mingled with sadness, "Mr. Richards has come, but Haalilio is dead." His remains were conveyed to our shores in the ship Montreal, on board of which he died. Three o'clock P. M. was the hour appointed for the funeral services to take place. A procession was formed within the walls of the fort, under the special direction of his Excellency, Governor Kekuana, led by a band of music. The procession marched to the King's Chapel, which was densely crowded. The religious services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Armstrong. After singing, prayer, and an address in the native language, Mr. Armstrong delivered an address in English. The Rev. Mr. Armstrong contributed not a little for the support of government. The taxes will be made as indirect and as little onerous as possible; and the revenue, as fast as received, expended in improvements. It is in view to deepen the channel to this harbour, so as to admit heavy frigates; and an iron steamer is talked of, to run among the islands. A number of the houses are already in process of erection, and if this place is to be continued as the capital, some handsome edifices for the use of government will be erected.

From the St. Louis Republican of September 6.

Late from the Oregon Country.

The St. Joseph's Gazette publishes two letters from an emigrant to Oregon. The first, dated the 17th of February, alludes chiefly to the progress which the settlers are making. The writer speaks in warm terms of the country, and says the emigrants raised a surplus of wheat last year of 100,000 bushels. The other letter is more important, because it shows that the emigrants have already established a separate government. Politics, it seems, were running high, and there, as here, appears to be no lack of men ready to fill the responsible office of Governor. The organization of this government will very likely bring on a collision between the emigrants and the Hudsons Bay Company. That company for several years past, has had a government organized under the act of the English Parliament, under which there is a resident Justice of the Peace at Fort Vancouver, and at several other stations. These Justices have jurisdiction, over all suits and contracts not exceeding £200, and over certain offences, for which they may inflict punishment. Suits for larger sums, and offences of a higher grade, are referred to the superior courts of Canada, and in criminal cases the accused may be sent there for trial. The jurisdiction of these Justices, we believe, extends to all cases arising between members of the Hudson Bay Company, or persons in their employ, and to cases arising between the company and their employees, and persons not connected with them. As there must necessarily be many transactions between the emigrants and the Hudsons Bay Company and their employees, in which disputes and difficulties will arise, it is reasonable to suppose that in such cases both governments will probably claim jurisdiction, and such conflicting claims will doubtless lead to difficulty. If the emigrants feel sufficient security in themselves to establish an independent government, they will not tamely submit to any assumptions of the English company or of their officers. We learn, by the annexed letter, that there are three candidates for governor in the field. We should like to know the designation of the parties, and the principles they respectively contend for. The fact that our citizens have gone to Oregon—a country claimed by the United States as part of her territory—and that they have been forced, as a means of self-protection, to establish a government of their own, and at their own expense, speaks badly for the attention and guardian care of the national government. This state of things, and the necessity for it, should not have been permitted by our national legislators. The emigrants, it seems, from the first letter, are not very well prepared to meet the expense of an independent government, unless skins, peltries, &c., are made a lawful tender. The writer says, "There is little or no money in this country; business is carried on entirely by exchanging commodities. I did not believe that the people could do so well without money." A grist mill, with three pairs of stones, has been put into operation at the Wallamete Falls. Merchandise is said to be very scarce.

March 22th.

We have had some beautiful weather in this month. The farmers are driving business as they should. There were some fears entertained a few days since of a difficulty with the Indians, but I do not think there was any cause for alarm. Politics are running very high at this time here, as our general election comes on in May. I think that it is the opinion of every body that Uncle Sam is treating us with great neglect, in consequence of which we have organized into a government known by the name of the Government of Oregon. We have three candidates for the Executive office, to wit: George Abernathy, Osborn Russell, and Dr. Baley.* I was a member of the Legislative Committee last year. Mr. Barnett was also a member. Oregon City, at the Falls, is improving finely.

S. M. GILMORE.

JAS. A. COCHRAN.

* Messrs Abernathy and Baley are from the city of New York, where their relatives still reside. Mr. Abernathy is a business man, and well calculated to get along in a new country. The grist mill spoken of belongs to him; and, at our last advices from Oregon, Mr. A. was about to proceed to the Sandwich Islands to purchase a supply of goods—he had been elected Mayor of Oregon City. So far as we understand, there are only two parties, the one attached to the Hudsons Bay Company, the other "The Independent Party."

Since the above was in type, we find in the Boston Atlas, a letter from the Sandwich Islands of May 17, which appears to bring the latest intelligence from Oregon. The passage between the Columbia river and Honolulu is generally performed in about 30 days.

We now quote from the Boston Atlas—"Quite recent. This spring their legislature meet to discuss the question of their entire independence, in which they are sustained by the Hudsons Bay Company. It appears by the letters of Lieutenant Wilkes, this way, that Oregon should become an independent republic. The settlement is very flourishing, and already consumes a considerable amount of sugar, coffee, salt, China and English goods, purchased at the Columbia. The settlers claim the 54th deg. north latitude as their boundary in that direction; though the Hudsons Bay Company are prepared to dispute any infringement upon sites claimed by them.

Late from Mexico.

We have intelligence from the city of Mexico, by way of New Orleans, to the 26th ultimo, and from Vera Cruz, to the 30th. The most important feature in the news is, that all was quiet, and both at the capitol and at Vera Cruz, the war fever seems to have subsided. Nothing is said of a declaration of war, and no movement of that kind was anticipated.

The President has at last succeeded in the formation of a Cabinet, which is composed as follows:—State Department, Sr. D. Manuel de la Peña y Peña; Justice, Ecclesiastical Affairs, &c., Sr. D. José Bernardo Couto; Treasury Department, D Pedro F. del Castillo; War and Marine, D. Pedro Maria Ansya. We cannot make room for their letters of acceptance of offices, all dated August 14th. They are wonderfully silent about the foreign relations of the country and war with the United States. Almonte, it will be seen, is not a member of the Cabinet.

The Diario del Gobierno considers the selection of the Cabinet as highly satisfactory, being constituted entirely of individuals who aided in bringing about the change of Santa Anna, and who have been distinguished by their attachment to liberal principles. The same paper declares, that the new ministry are determined to prosecute the Texas campaign with activity.

A letter from San Louis, in the Hesperia of the 12th, estimates the force under Paredes, at 3,500 infantry, and 500 cavalry.

The Voz de Tamaulipas says, that the authorities of that department have announced to the government that an invasion of the territory by the Texans is threatened, and that prompt measures are required to protect the department from the menaced attack.

The Siegle publishes the result of the trial of the adjutant general of the cavalry, Otero, accused of having outraged the inviolability of the French minister. The court martial decided that Capt. Otero could not be considered guilty, inasmuch as he was not aware of the official character of the Baron de Cyprey; and that the imprisonment he had already undergone was a suf fine and noble race. At this Council, a generous deed was performed by the Christian Indians of Sangeen and Owen's Sound, in offering their tract of land for the residence of all their scattered countrymen who will come and settle on it. The Chiefs of thirteen tribes embraced the offer. The scattered parts of the Ojebway nation will, as soon as possible, resort to this part of the province, where will be established the Manual Labour School in prospect. It was understood, from an authentic source, by the Chiefs at the Provincial Council at Saugeeng, that the Indian tribes would hereafter be under the immediate superintendence and management of his Excellency the Governor General, and the Indian office for the transaction of their business is to be connected with the Civil Secretary's Office; that the offices of Chief Superintendent and Superintendents were abolished entirely; and that three of the senior officers of the department were sustained and continued under the name and title of Visitors, Captain Anderson, of Manidowaning, is to be stationed in the city of Toronto, and have charge of all the Indians east of Hamilton. Colonel J. B. Cleeds to have charge of the Indians west of that place; and Mr. Ironside is to be stationed at Muscadawabing, and have charge of the Indians on those islands.—Christian Guardian.

His Excellency the Governor General has given £10 towards the erection of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Ancaster.—Ib.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS AT THE FALLS.—The contract for constructing the road down the high bank of Niagara river at Bellevue Spring, near the Falls, was given to James Gage, of Waterloo, who is prepared to break ground on the 15th instant. The contracts for building the steamboat and a small tavern house, will be made within two weeks. Add to which another association is forming for the purpose of erecting a hotel on the plan and size of the United States Hotel at Saratoga, at the same point, with a capital of 50 to $100,000, of which $25,000 is already taken. Maj. Stuart, the agent and engineer of the Falls Ferry Association, is now on his way East, where he is confidently expected that the balance will be taken. The work will be commenced immediately, and the hotel will be open for the reception of visitors on the 4th of July next.—Rochester Democrat.

CURIOUS ARREST.—Officers Powell and Clayton, having, as they supposed, obtained a clue to the whereabouts of the young man Dwyegaut, who lately robbed Gay's express of a large sum of money, went into Henry street, near Middath, on Wednesday evening, and there found a man exactly corresponding with the described appearance of the person whom they desired to capture. He was in company with another man who was exceedingly merry, and that his friend should thus be pounced upon and in consequence of his violence, he was also arrested. On being taken before Justice Bowring, it turned out that although the officers were mistaken in their men, they had nevertheless caught "a character." The person first arrested gave his name as John Devyr, and it appeared that he had recently come to this city from Providence in company with his quasi friend and fellow prisoner, (Alexander Murray,) and that during their course among the lions of New York, the latter had been robbed of all his money. Both the individuals were subjected to a close searching operation, during which, to the astonishment and gratification of Murray, a goodly portion of his lost money was found in Devyr's possession. Under these circumstances, Mr. Devyr was committed to jail, to await his trial for grand larceny.—New York Herald.

Statistics of Drunkenness.

A very curious document has been lately drawn up on "The origin, cause, results, metaphysics, philosophy, and physiology of drunkenness." One of the most curious chapters is that which contains a table of the various circumstances to which intoxication is attributed. The Report divides intoxication into several heads, including the money, which is a sort of minor branch. Among the money, six cases out of ten may be traced to spasms, and that one-nineteenth arises from birth-days; that among confidential clerks debauchery is rare, but when it occurs, pickled salmon, or the arrival of a friend from the country, are found to be the most usual causes of the malady. Drunkenness has also been known to arise in some instances from taking up a bill; but as the latter is an operation which persons given to intoxication seldom perform, the number of cases to be attributed to this source is very insignificant. A wife's birth-day has often been known to lead to a total prostration of the husband; but it is a remarkable fact that the day is frequently mistaken in these instances; and such is the power of imagination, that a man has been known to drop down in the gutter eight or nine times in a year, thro'gh having fancied that the birth day of his wife occurred re-ectedly in the course of a twelve-month.—Punch.

SIMILE.—"I never felt this before," as the man said of the pain in his back.

The only transaction in wheat that has occurred is the sale of 2000 bushels little tort, afloat, of prime quality, at 87c. Some 30,000 bushels received this morning were sold some days ago to arrive, and go to Canada and Black Rock.

AMERICAN HARDWARE.

CIRCULAR TO THE TRADE.

NEW YORK, August 15, 1845.

SIR,—We take the liberty of calling your attention to our having established an AGENCY HOUSE in this City, and of enclosing hereto that, although our primary inducements to this step are to facilitate the transaction of our own House and their immediate connection, we have determined to lay ourselves out also for a GENERAL BUYING and SELLING COMMISSION BUSINESS, both in Foreign and Domestic Goods and Produce, as well as for the Importing of Goods, raw Stock, &c. the Canadas, during the period of the year when the navigation of the St. Lawrence is closed.

You are aware what our peculiar advantages and experience are in the European Markets, as having long been one of the most extensive Buying Houses for Canada; and we have great pleasure in being able to inform you, that we have already attained an almost equally prominent position in the purchase of most of the great articles manufactured in the United States.

At Hamilton, Canada West, we shall have constantly on hand a large Stock of AMERICAN MANUFACTURES, for the convenience of the Trade Westward, and in the Niagara District, which, through peculiarly advantageous arrangements with many of the principal Makers, we are enabled to offer at the same prices as their Goods are sold by the Manufacturers' Agents in New York and Boston, with the simple addition of freight, Duty, and Exchange.

We shall not hold any Stocks of American Goods at Montreal, but our arrangements enable us to do. Here a complete set of Patterns from the Manufacturers from which to take orders from the Wholesale Trade.

These Patterns will comprise the Goods of the best Makers of all sorts of Edge Tools, Agricultural Implements, and all other descriptions of Hardware, made in the United States; and to the Houses who may confide their orders to us, we shall give the advantage of all the allowances which, under our arrangements, we get from the Manufacturers, both in the shape of Agents' Commission and Discount for Cash, continuing in New York, what has always been our interest—to buy for our English purchases, viz: to charge our Constituent the amount of our actual outlay, and a moderate commission proportioned to the extent and value to us of his general transactions.

We are, Sir,
Yours very respectfully,
BUCHANAN, HARRIS & Co.

FOR SALE,
